

Lesson Plan 1: What am I?

Water

I'm not a fish but live in the sea.
I'm wibbly and wobbly and sometimes I'm clear.
I won't bother you if you don't bother me,
But be careful, I might sting if you come too near.

I am a ...

I swim very fast and I love to be free,
But you may not know I am a king of the sea.
Some think I'm small because of those small tins,
But I can be two metres long (not counting my fins!).

I am a ...

The largest animal that has ever lived – that's me.
Lucky for you, I live in the sea.
I eat four tonnes of tiny krill every single day
And can live way past my centenary.

I am a ...

Land

I'm black and white and have a snout.
In the hours of darkness I move about.
My home is a 'sett'; my babies are 'cubs'.
I eat berries and roots, peanuts and grubs!

I am a ...

I live in the trees but I cannot fly.

A bushy tail and big teeth have I.
My fur can be red or it can be grey.
I bury my food for another day.

I am a ...

I always wear stripes and I live far away.
I'm like a horse but I don't eat hay.
I look out for lions because I am their prey,
And try to stay safe for another day.

I am a ...

Air

I fly like a bird but only at night.
In vampire films I may give you a fright.
The films aren't true though – I hurt no one,
Just sleep upside down and wait for night-time to come.

I am a ...

In almost every city I can be found.
I fly in the air but often walk on the ground.
My feathers are grey with shimmers of blue, pink and green.
I like to eat grain, strut around and preen!

I am a ...

I fly in the air but am not a bird or a bat.
I was once a caterpillar – just fancy that!
My colours are stunning – every shade, every hue.
I dance in spring and summer, but then I leave you.
